Winsted Introduces the Matrix Custom Console System

MINNEAPOLIS, October 3, 2006 — Winsted Corporation, a world leader in ergonomic technical furniture, introduces the Matrix Custom Console System. From a single console to complete control rooms, the Matrix is designed to seamlessly integrate operators with technology to create a highly productive work environment.

Using the customizable matrix platform, Matrix Custom Console Systems can be configured to meet every performance and equipment need while enhancing the operator's comfort level. Ergonomic display mounts can be configured to allow a see-over height for large installations or modules built vertically.

The Matrix base cabinets can be designed to house multiple CPUs, rack electronics, wire management or storage capabilities. Ergonomic keyboard trays, lockable doors, desktop power and data ports, and scalable power supply are just a few of the available features. Steel frames are available in more than 50 powder-coated colors and Corian® work surfaces are available in more than 100 colors to match any décor.

Details are available at www.winsted.com or on page 36 of Winsted's 2006 catalog.

A world leader in technical furniture and interior design for more than 40 years, Winsted creates ergonomic workspaces that are both efficient and beautiful. Winsted's diverse product line includes custom and standard rack cabinets, security consoles, command centers and tape/data storage systems.
